

https://www.mdjonline.com/news/education/mount-paran-christian-school-hosts-blue-jeans-for-haiti-day/article_58cb59cc-0766-11ec-9157-5b04baf2a7bf.html

Mount Paran Christian School hosts "Blue Jeans for Haiti" Day

Staff reports

Aug 27, 2021

From left, back row, are Mount Paran Christian School freshmen Samm Buff, Ethan Hendrick, Zack Sute, Kate Santanta, Cloey Levstek, Shelby Harris, Taliyah White; and front row Ryan New and Austin Love, who participated in the school's "Blue Jeans for Haiti" dress-down day to raise money for Haiti hurricane relief.

Special

On Aug. 20, students at Mount Paran Christian School in Kennesaw voluntarily participated in a dress-down day, opting to pay $5 to wear blue jeans to class.

The school, where students typically dress in standard uniforms, hosted the special day to provide aid to Haiti - which was recently devastated by a hurricane. The event collected over $3,600. The funds have already been dispersed to MPCS partner organization World Vision, which is in the process of supplying the worst-hit Les Cayes communities with large shipments of food, hygiene and baby kits.